Young people between 12 and 23 can now register to the eighth edition of "Cibaile" that has become the year's biggest show for all young people who want to exploit his talent in dancing, and for visitors to enjoy if they having their costa rica travel vacations around that time of the year.

Groups wishing to register for this competition can do so until August 1 in the website www.cibaile.com.

The requirements are: forming groups between 8 and 55, choose a theme and prepare a choreography of 14 minutes maximum.

Also, if the group is made up of 8 to 20 members must pay the sum of 30.000 colones, from 21 to 30 must pay 35.000 colones, 31 to 40 participants 40.000 colones, and if more than 41 young participants must pay 50. 000 colones.

This year Cibaile presents a novelty, since competition will be divided into categories: the junior and senior. If you are traveling to explore new sites, take in consideration that the top hotels costa rica are waiting to give you a perfect stay.

May participate in the performances of junior schools in the country whose ages are between 12 and 19, while the senior is for youth between 19 and 23 who come from schools or independent groups.

Among the prizes for the junior category will deliver $ 1500 for first place, for the second $ 600, and $ 400 for third. For the senior category will be awarded $1500 just to the top of the competition.

The semifinals will be disputed on Friday 7th, and Saturday 8th September and the final will be held at the Palacio de los Deportes in Heredia, September 22nd from 5pm to 10pm where he will participate as guest Cocofunka group.

Laura Morales, director of Cibaile, argued that young people participate each year in this competition, prepare for months to fuse music, dance, imagination and adrenalin. Costa rica travel specials will cover this event as part of the tours if you indicate you want to attend.
